

WOMEN'S RIGHTS LAW REPORTER

Rutgers School of Law

Founded in 1970

Call for Abstracts

The Women's Rights Law Reporter is seeking submissions for its annual symposium entitled "Feminism In The Law: An Exploration Of Justice Ginsburg's Legacy."

The symposium will be held on December 2, 2021 from 3-5pm on the Newark campus in conjunction with Rutgers Law School's ceremony for the renaming of 15 Washington Street in honor of the late Justice. As a Rutgers Law School faculty member, Ruth Bader Ginsburg served as the first faculty adviser to the Women's Rights Law Reporter, which is the nation's oldest legal periodical focusing on the field of women's rights law.

The symposium will explore Justice Ginsburg's lasting legacy and the work that still needs to be done in the field of gender, sexuality, and the law. The symposium promises to be a very well publicized and attended event that will include opening remarks by Justice Ginsburg's daughter, Professor Jane Ginsburg. We hope to include a wide range of scholars on the panel who can discuss how Justice Ginsburg's achievements have impacted their own work and scholarship.

The symposium is being planned as an in-person event, subject to evolving New Jersey health regulations. In the event that the event cannot be held live, we will hold the symposium virtually. We are also open to a hybrid format if a panel member is unable to travel due to health concerns.

Those interested in participating should submit an abstract (~750-1,000) words and CV to eics@womensrightslawreporter.com with the subject "RBG Symposium Submission" by September 30, 2021. Given the short timeline, decisions will be made by October 15, 2021. Those selected will be contacted via email and provided information about traveling to Rutgers Law School for the symposium. We will provide a modest honorarium per speaker as well as reimbursement for reasonable travel expenses.

Once selected, draft articles should be submitted by November 22, 2021. We are looking to have a final draft of paper submissions by January 25, 2021. We are, however, willing to accommodate you if you are unable to adhere to this timeline. Paper length should be roughly 5,000 words; however, we are willing to consider pieces that are either longer or shorter. Papers will be published in the spring edition of the Women's Rights Law Reporter.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS LAW REPORTER
Rutgers School of Law
Founded in 1970

We look forward to reading your submissions and are anticipating a very successful, thought-provoking symposium.

Sincerely,

Samantha Arnold & Siena Carnevale
Co-Editors-In-Chief, Women's Rights Law Reporter